Indians in the United States

This bulletin (136) contains about 300 items to show the variety and range of the subject in this library. It is representative rather than complete.

Superintendent F. M. Conser of the Sherman Institute in Riverside and H. B. Peairs, Supervisor of Schools, U. S. Indian Service, have our thanks for interest in this bulletin and in all library matters.

This bulletin is published by authority of Board of Directors of the Riverside Public Library:

A. N. WHEELLOCK, President.

C. L. McFARLAND, Secretary.

H. B. CHASE,

L. V. W. BROWN.

..... (To be appointed.)

NOTE:

The outline of four lectures at the Indian Conference in August, 1915, held at San Francisco, is added by request of many teachers and others who attended the lectures.

ORIGIN AND ANTIQUITY

Bancroft, H. H.

Native races. San Francisco. A. L. Bancroft & Co., 1883.

"The author had access to a vast number of Spanish works relating to the condition of the early inhabitants of Mexico and the Pacific slopes; and he has not only used these with indefatigable industry, but he has also availed himself of such results as could come from recent observation of the native races. The production shows learning and good judgment as well as unwearied research." C. K. Adams.

Bandelier, Ad. F. A.

Historical introduction to studies among the sedentary Indians of New Mexico; [and] Report on the ruins of the pueblo of Pecos. (Archaeological Institute of America. Papers; American series). Boston, A. Williams & Co., 1881.

Bunnell, L. H.

Discovery of the Yosemite, and the Indian war of 1851 which led to that event. Revell, 1892.

Catlin, George

Letters and notes on the manners, customs, and condition of the North American Indians. 2 v. Lond. Published by the author, 1841.

"Mr. Catlin visited forty-eight tribes in the Mississippi and Missouri valleys and on the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains during eight years travels (1832-1839). His object was to paint portraits of men and women in every tribe, together with views of villages, games, etc. The two volumes . . . form an unusually entertaining narrative of travels in an almost unknown region, and at the same time are of great value in their descriptions of Indian life. Over three hundred illustrations from Catlin's original paintings accompany the text." Larned's Literature of American history.

This work of two volumes octavo and one volume folio containing the celebrated "Catlin plates" is highly prized by any library fortunate to own it.

Catlin, George

Catlin's notes of eight years' travels and residence in Europe with his North American Indian collection; with anecdotes and incidents of the travels and adventures of the different parties of American Indians whom he introduced to the courts of England, France, and Belgium. 2 v. Lond. Published by the author, 1848.

Cody, W. F.

Adventures of Buffalo Bill. Harper, 1904.

The North Americans of yesterday; a comparative study of North American life, customs, and products, on the theory of the ethnic unity of the race. Putnam, 1901.

Dixon, J. K.

The vanishing race, the last great Indian council; a record in picture and story of the latest great Indian council, participated in by eminent Indian chiefs from nearly every Indian reservation in the United States, together with the story of their lives as told by themselves—their speeches and folklore tales—their solemn farewell and the Indians' story of the Custer fight, written and illustrated by Dr. Joseph K. Dixon, leader of the expeditions to the North American Indian to perpetuate the life story of these first Americans; the concept of Rodman Wanamaker. This volume is illustrated with eighty photogravures of Indian chiefs and Indian life. Doubleday, 1913.

Indians of the southwest. Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe R. R., 1903.

Drake, S. G.

The aboriginal races of North America. N. Y., John B. Alden, 1880.

"Fund of historical and biographical material . . . The sources of his historical studies were very extensive, and although his book betrays some lack of discrimination in the selection of material, it embodies a great number of historical facts that would require untold labor to obtain in any other way." Larned's Literature of American history.

To Wolf and people of the Mandan nation. To Beaver, the head warrior of the Delawares; speech to the chiefs of various Indian tribes. (In Modern eloquence. John D. Morris & Co., Phil., 1900-1903. v. 13, p. 1260-1268).

Lewis, Meriwether & Clark, William

Original journals of the Lewis and Clark expedition, 1804-1806; ed. by R. G. Thwaites. 8 v. Dodd, 1904-1905.

Long, John

Voyages and travels of an Indian interpreter and trader; describing the manners and customs of the North American Indians, with an account of the posts on the St. Lawrence, Lake Ontario, etc., to which is added a vocabulary of the Chippeway language. (In Thwaites' Early western travels, 1748-1846, v. 2). A. H. Clark, 1904.

McKenney, T. L.

History of the Indian tribes of North America, with biographical sketches and anecdotes of the principal chiefs. Embellished with one hundred and twenty portraits (in color) from the Indian gallery in the Department of War, at Washington. 3 v. Phil., D. Rice & A. N. Hart, 1855.

McKenney, T. L.

Memoirs, official and personal; with sketches of travels among the northern and southern Indians. 2 v. in 1. N. Y., Paine & Burgess, 1846.

"McKenney was appointed, in 1846, superintendent of the United States trade with the Indian tribes, and, in 1824, head of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, where he served until forced to retire by Jackson. He had great faith in the Indian and has much to say in regard to the 'abominable abuse of power' of the government with the Indians. . . . The author's observations and anecdotes are entertaining, although the volume is fragmentary. Stories are told in regard to political life at Washington . . . which strikingly illustrate the corruption in governmental contracts and the workings of the spoils system under Jackson." Larned's Literature of American history.

Miles, N. A.

Serving the republic; memories of the civil and military life of Nelson A. Miles. Harper, 1911.

Mollhausen, Balduin

Outline of Four Lectures by Joseph F. Daniels at the Meeting of Teachers and Other Employees of the United States Indian Schools Held at San Francisco August, 1915.

Considerable emphasis was placed upon the vital human interest that makes story-telling and the literary forms as we know them in familiar classics, in folk literature and in fugitive ballads and songs.

In some cases lists of books were given and some of them are noted here as brief memoranda, but without publisher, edition, date, price or other description.

During the lectures that was not necessary because more than 300 books were used and displayed during the week of the conference.

The lectures could have been illustrated just as well by hundreds of other books, but these listed were at hand and served the purpose . . . the lecture itself, each time, was never confined to the books used on the table.

Those in attendance asked for the outline and here it is:

FIRST LECTURE

The theory of the influence of books through familiarity, imitation of style and the book habit acquired by actual contact or handling of books.

1. The doctrine of interest in modern education.
2. The striking features which really make books interesting at first sight.

Pictures of Parrish, Caldecott, Greenaway, Dulac, Walter Crane and others were shown.

a. Pictures.

Shakespeare, The Tempest, Ill. by Woodroffe.
 Arabian nights, Ill. by Maxfield Parrish.
 Dana, Two years before the mast, Ill. by E. Boyd Smith.
 Stevenson, Treasure Island, Ill. by N. C. Wyeth.
 Hedrick, Plums of New York.
 Brinkley's Japan, Section 1.
 Mexican boundary survey, pt. 11 (Birds).
 Pacific Railroad survey, vol. 12 (landscapes).
 Bu. of Ethnology report, 1899 (Indian design).
 Report of National Museum, 1902 (Indian basketry).
 Catlin, North American Indians, 2 vols.
 Catlin, Plates.

McKenney & Hall, Indian tribes of North America.
 Dellenbaugh, The North Americans.
 McIntosh, Indians, 1849.

b. Book design shown by books displayed at lecture.

Sidney, The defense of poesie.
 Briscoe, Two oldest trees.
 Chenery, Home entertaining.
 Thackeray, Ballads and songs.
 Shakespeare, The Tempest.
 Milton, Comus and other poems (Mask).

The size and shape of books, the color of the outside, the texture and fabric in leather, cloth, etc., and the space divisions of the front cover were demonstrated at the lecture.

Finger editions and miniature books were not shown.

SECOND LECTURE

The knowledge of books by mere handling.

1. Arranging books on shelves.
2. Writing lists and entries.
3. Lending books and taking them back.
4. The ownership of books and means of identification.
5. The most pronounced examples of books that are handled—Vade Mecum, log books, diaries.

Epictetus.

Marcus Aurelius.

Amiel, Journal intime.

Franklin, Autobiography.

Aldrich, Story of a bad boy.

"Abe Lincoln's" anecdotes and stories.

Canfield, Diary of a Forty-Niner.
